

NO NAME

MAY 2019

A wide-angle photograph of a large freight train yard at sunset. The sky is filled with large, dramatic clouds illuminated by the low sun, creating a warm orange and yellow glow. In the foreground and middle ground, numerous parallel train tracks stretch into the distance. The tracks are filled with freight trains, primarily composed of long, silver-colored cylindrical tank cars. Some tracks also have flatcars loaded with blue and white shipping containers. A few small figures of workers can be seen on the ground near the tracks. In the background, industrial buildings and structures are visible against the horizon. A large black diagonal shape covers the left side of the image, serving as a background for the text.

Hello and sorry for the delay! We've all been busy with school so that's why it took us so long to post this issue of No Name. We hope it was worth the wait though! Enjoy.

DON'T BUY FUR

Don't buy fur, don't pay for cruelty!

Humans have been wearing animal fur for millennia, what is unprecedented is the severe abuse that animals experience only for economic and materialistic profit.

In early human civilization, animal fur was used for survival and necessity, but this is clearly no longer the case today.

As human technology has progressed and created a range of clothing options available, there is no reason to wear animal fur other than for conspicuous consumption and monetary gain. In a capitalist and competitive global market, fur farming methods are designed to benefit only the bottom line. In the end, innocent animals pay the ultimate price. Fur-farming is a shamefully inhumane practice, and it is our responsibility to put an end to this cruelty.

What can we do?

The easiest way to help stop animals from suffering in the fur industry is not to wear fur at all or anything made from animals. Check the label, and if it shows that an item was made from animals, put it down. Look for clothing and accessories that were made with cotton, cotton flannel, polyester, and synthetic shearling instead

Nowadays , we meet with excitement over animals. Animals trust in people immensely and I don't understand how you can use it to be bullied. It is obviously necessary to prosecute and punish the perpetrators. You have to react when you see signals that violence can occur. Remember that an animal is a living being who has feelings. Let us not hurt them and let us not only be an owner for them but also the best life companion

POLISH REPRESENTATION IN FOOTBALL

|

It is a national team in football, which represents the Republic of Poland in international sports competitions. The Polish Football Association, headed by president Zbigniew Boniek, is responsible for its existence and functioning. Only athletes with Polish citizenship may participate in the national team. The team is colloquially called White and Red. The coach of our so-called "Orłów" is a great trainer with many years of experience Jerzy Brzęczek. The Polish team played their first international match in 1921 against Hungary. Our team is currently playing their matches at the National Stadium, which was built in Warsaw, and ns Silesian Stadium, which was built in Chorzów. The latter object is also used for athletics purposes. Poland takes part in the FIFA World Cup (World Cup) and the UEFA European Championship (EURO), which are held alternately every two years. Representation is wrongly also called the cadre, which is a broader concept. The team is appointed by the appropriate coach or coach in the category of club, district or association and is the basis for the selection of the team. In turn, the representation is a group selected from among the members of the team, actively participating in the sport game. I admire the footballers who run for 90 minutes on the pitch, and then the whole week train to satisfy us, i.e. fans and the whole club. It may seem to us that it is not uncertain how tiring, but I have been running 45 minutes and I was very tired and I can not imagine that much.

BEE RESPONSIBLE

Aerial and ground spray applicators can help protect bees:

- 1 Avoid spraying in windy conditions to prevent drift. Take into account wind direction and atmospheric stability.
- 2 Implement an integrated pest management plan to apply pesticides only when necessary.
- 3 Coordinate with local beekeepers before spraying so nearby hives can be moved or otherwise protected.
- 4 Follow the instructions on the label to ensure you use only the recommended dose.
- 5 Use drift-reduction application equipment that is well maintained and calibrated.
- 6 Avoid spraying pesticides when bees are foraging.
- 7 Avoid contamination from spray liquids when mixing and properly dispose of waste and other used materials.
- 8 Use genuine products and alert authorities of counterfeit or illegal pesticides as they have unknown impacts on wildlife.

A DREAM COMES TRUE

4.1.

On August 7, 1974, when Wall Street was waking up after a quiet night, a Frenchman called Philippe Petit put into practice the idea he had had for years. At sunrise, he stepped onto a steel cable and walked a few times between the twin towers of the World Trade Center. On the street below, thousands of people couldn't believe their eyes watching the tiny figure up in the air.

4.2.

The Frenchman was an acrobat from Paris. In 1968, while waiting at the dentist's, Petit read an article about the construction of the twin towers in New York. He looked at the design of the towers and imagined himself on a cable, walking the 61-metre distance between them. He knew he would do it one day.

What's your opinion ?

A person is captured mid-jump, diving into a pool of water. The scene is set at sunset, with the sky transitioning from a deep blue to a warm orange and pink. Several other people are standing on the pool deck, watching the jumper. The water in the pool is calm, reflecting the vibrant colors of the sky and the silhouettes of the people. The overall mood is joyful and celebratory.
